The wife of a minister traded a box of his old sermons for a new bread pan. The next spring the ragman came around again, and asked if she had any more sermons to sell.

"Why do you want sermons?"
"Because I did so well with those I got here a year ago. I was unable to work in the summer, and a preacher in the country boarded me and my horse three months for that barrel of sermons, and he has since got a great reputation as a preacher up there. I'll give you 5 cents a pound for all you have"

Mr. Brown had a new Swedish maid, who said one day after the holidays, "Mrs. Brown, where have you been?"

Mrs. Brown said, "Oh, he has gone back to Yale, and I miss him so much."

The maid said: "I know you miss him. My brother, he been in Yale since Thanksgiving."

"John writes that several of his friends in the senior class have got him interested in fencing," said Mrs. Brown, putting down a letter.

"That's more than we could do when he was home," sighed Mr. Brown. "The sight of a spade or post-hole digger always seemed to give him the hitters."

"Mary, has anybody telephoned while I've been out?"
"Yes, sir," replied the maid, "but I could not make out the name. To be on the safe side, I said you would let him have something on account to-morrow."

"We girls are going to New York after we sing our number over the radio."

"Well, I guess that's as good a place to hide as any."

Yoyager: "Doesn't this ship tip a great deal?"

Steward: "No, sir, not that I've noticed. She leaves that to the passengers, sir."

"I hear your country is prosperous."

"Never better. We've got a shortage of food, clothing, machinery and luxuries."

NEW DORNIER FLYING BOAT

Successful Flight In Bad Weather

"Hong Kong Daily Press" Special.

Zürich, July 17.
The new Dornier flying boat, "DO XVIII" is at present undergoing her preliminary tests. She recently made a flight lasting 20 1/2 hours, during which time she covered a distance of 4,600 kilometres at an average speed of 224 kilometres per hour.

The ship was shot off the new catapult ship at Kiel, "Ostmark," and landed the next day at Travemünde. The day before, to the accompaniment of heavy weather, the flying boat had made a flight of 7 1/2 hours, in which she showed her reliability in all respects, particularly in regard to her blind flying apparatus.

These tests are preliminaries to the inauguration of a North Atlantic mail service over the route Azores, Bermuda-New York, for which the new machine is destined. Transoceanic News Service.

ACT WAS A PROTEST

SOLICITOR EXPLAINS INCIDENT

NO DESIRE TO ASSASSINATE THE KING

London, July 16.

The King presented new Colours to six Battalions of Guards in Hyde Park this morning. The brilliant ceremony was watched by Queen Mary. Immense crowds had gathered in the Park and along the route.

In an address to the troops the King said: "Humanity cries out for peace and assurance of peace, and you will find in peace the opportunities of duty and service as noble as any that bygone battlefields can show."

Afterwards the King rode at the head of the troops as far as Buckingham Palace, where he took the salute as the Battalions marched past.

As procession approached Wellington Archway in Constitution Hill, a man in the crowd created a disturbance just as His Majesty passed, which was the subject of questions in the House of Commons this afternoon.

THE INCIDENT

The Secretary replying to the leader of opposition said "The House will be deeply moved to learn that during the return journey of the Royal Procession from Hyde Park this morning, a man pushed his way to the front of the crowd in Constitution Hill. Exactly what followed has not been precisely ascertained, but a revolver fell in the roadway between the King and Troops following. The man was immediately arrested and taken to Hyde Park Police Station. No shot was fired but the revolver was found to be loaded in four of its five chambers. The whole House will be profoundly thankful that the risk to which His Majesty was exposed was so promptly averted."

NO ATTEMPT AT THE KING

Later the arrested man—George Andrew Mahon, Journalist—was charged at Bow Street Police Court with "unlawful possession of firearm with intent to endanger life." And after Police evidence had been taken he was remanded in custody for eight days.

The defending solicitor declared, "defendant denied most emphatically there was any attempt or desire to assassinate the King," and explained that he sought an early opportunity of making this statement in view of the sensational reports which had already got into circulation.

Police gave evidence of the arrest, and of a five chambered revolver which was loaded with ball ammunition in four chambers. It was not loaded in the chamber which gave immediate access to the barrel. The weapon did not appear to have been fired for some considerable time.

When arrested the prisoner referred to some communication he alleged he had made to the Home Office and said, "I did not want to hurt the King in any way." I only wanted to make a protest.

At the conclusion of the March past of the Brigade of Guards the King, who after the first look of surprise and annoyance at the disturbance in Constitution Hill ignored the incident, and had continued his ride to Buckingham Palace unperturbed, drove to York House. Later in the afternoon he went by car to Coombe Hill Golf Course where he played a round of golf. His Majesty returned to London this evening.

SOUTH-AFRICAN PROTECTORATES

POLICY OF AIDE MEMOIRE

Statements in Commons

London, July 16.

At Commons question time, the Dominions Secretary made a long statement on the South-African protectorates. Mr. Malcolm MacDonald said that the acting High Commissioner for the Basutoland Bechuanaland protectorate and Swaziland had been in communication with the South-African Prime Minister about his recent statements in Union House of Assembly regarding the transfer of these territories to Union.

General Hertzog stated that he stood by the terms of the Aide Memoire of last year and had confirmed, it was the full text of agreement reached between him and Mr. Thomas. He had explained that his recent statements were to be read as an expression of his personal hope that if the policy agreed to in the Aide Memoire was loyally carried out by both Governments the position would within a few years be created which would permit the transfer of territories to the Union with the good will of their populations.

He agrees however with the view of His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom that it is essential to the success of the policy of cooperation it should not be hurried and that until the policy had a fair trial, the predictions as to the period within which it might be expected to succeed in bringing about the situation which the two Governments had in mind when the Aide Memoire was issued must necessarily be in nature of conjecture. Mr. MacDonald added he would like to make it clear there was no agreement or understanding between the Government's transfer of territories or of any one of them should take place within any specified time and went on to speak of the recent generous offer of the Union Government to share in certain development schemes in the territories.

It was made clear to the native authorities the acceptance of the offer could not impair the pledges already given by the United Kingdom Government to consult the inhabitants of the territories before any decision was reached as to the transfer. In view however of the uneasiness which it is understood was still felt by the native authorities on the subject, the United Kingdom Government, Mr. MacDonald announced had come to the conclusion it would be preferable for the proposal for financial assistance on part of the Union Government to remain in abeyance for the present. General Hertzog had stated he was entirely willing to agree to this course.

AMBASSADORS RECEIVED BY MR. EDEN

THREE POWERS PACT

London, July 16.

The Foreign Secretary, Mr. Eden this evening received the French and Belgian Ambassadors and discussed with them in turn matters relating to the suggested meeting of the Three Powers arising out of the Communiqué issued at Geneva on July 3 by the delegations of the Three Powers.

It is understood no final decision has at the moment been reached regarding the projected meeting. British opinion clearly desires to see an effort made towards achieving a general European settlement and would like the Three Powers meeting, if it is held, to be regarded as part of an initiative designed to produce consultations on a wider basis with a view to producing a general settlement.

ENGINEERING AND BUILDING

THE TRANSMISSION OF LIGHT THROUGH WINDOW GLASS

Specimens Of Glass Measured

Ten years ago the Illumination Research Committee published a report giving the transmission factors of nine specimens of rolled or cast plate window glass which were examined under three sets of conditions as regards the distribution of the incident light. This work has now been extended to cover measurements on a much larger number of glasses, the results being given in a report which has recently been issued by H. M. Stationery Office.

In all, 49 specimens of glass were measured, four being plain polished glasses, 13 having one or both surfaces unpolished, 14 having one surface patterned, four having a fluted surface, four being prismatic, six being wired, three being obscured and one being coloured. Each sample was 4 1/2 in. square and from 1/8 in. to 1 in. thick and, as before, the measurements of transmission were made under the three conditions corresponding to those in most common use. These were with the direct light incident normally on the glass, with completely diffused light, such as that received on a horizontal roof from a complete hemisphere of uniform sky; and with restricted diffused light, or light incident at all angles less than 45 deg. from the vertical, the condition met with in the case of a vertical window facing a street in which the angle of elevation of the opposite buildings is 45 deg. The methods of measurements were similar to those given in the previous report.

THE RESULTS

The results are set out in a table which is too long for reproduction. But it may be mentioned that with direct light the transmission factor varied from 92 in the case of 13 glasses (Vita glass plain; double rolled white; pure white Flemish; pinhead Morocco (two); figured rolled, F. Kaleidoscope, No. 3; and six specimens of prismatic glass), to 46 in the case of Calorex cast glass. The lowest figure for white glass was 73 in the case of a prismatic, angle No. 2.

METAL SPRAYING ON WOOD

Tests Carried Out In India

The process of metal spraying, employing wire melted by a blow-pipe flame and deposited on the surface of materials for their protection, is becoming of constantly increasing importance. The metal fed into the spraying pistol, in the form of fine wire is melted and sprayed upon the surface to be treated, by means of compressed air. This air disperses the heat so effectively that there is no visible harmful effect upon the base material. Some roughening of the surface, to be treated, is desirable, and this is commonly secured by sand blasting. With wood this tends to raise the natural grain, and results in a good adhesion.

Recently experiments were conducted at the Forest Research Institute, Dehra Dun, India, by Messrs. S. N. Kapur and Azizul Rehman, to find out to what extent wood sprayed with metal is protected against changes in its moisture content and dimensions. A report of this work was given in the "Indian Forester." For the purpose of the tests, air-seasoned planks of teak, haldi, sissoo, Indian rosewood, gurjan and andaman were taken and cross cut to give four specimens. Certain control pieces were also procured. The specimens were sprayed with various metals by Messrs. Allen-Liveridge (India) Limited of Bombay.

THE PROCESS

After a few days of air conditioning all of the specimens were put in a chamber maintained at a temperature of 95 deg. F. and a relative humidity of 72 per cent., in which they were allowed to attain a state of equilibrium by remaining therein for about a month. Weights and measurements before and after this treatment were recorded. The specimens were transferred in succession to vessels kept at 53, 30, 50 and 90 per cent. relative humidity, respectively, to determine the effect under this series of different conditions. Following this, they were transferred from the 90 per cent. relative humidity chamber to one at 30 per cent. weighed and measured daily, to find the amount of rehydration in the rates of moisture loss, and of shrinkage, as compared with the untreated controls. Further tests were made to discover the absorption of water under a spray, as well as by soaking for eight days.

The results proved to be very interesting. It was found, for example, that metals of low melting point, such as tin, lead and zinc, when sprayed on wood, reduced its susceptibility to changes in moisture content and dimensions due to variations in the humidity of the atmosphere by from about one-half to one-third. In contrast to this, it was found that metals melting at higher temperatures like bronze, brass, copper and aluminium, do not protect wood appreciably against changes

WATER-SOFTENING APPARATUS

A COMPACT SET

Popular With Public

Hard water is frequently a source of trouble and annoyance, and deposits of salts in the pipes of water heaters and similar plant not only lower the efficiency of the apparatus, but may in some cases, entail costly repairs and renewals. The softening of the water provides a solution to these difficulties, but in order to attain popularity among the general public, an apparatus introduced for this purpose should be compact, easy to operate, and relatively inexpensive. A household appliance which appears to fulfil these conditions has recently been placed on the market by Messrs. Clensol Limited, 75, Victoria-street, London, S.W.1. It consists essentially of a chrommum-plated brass container enclosing an inner container in which is suspended a water-softening block. The unit works on a simple, yet ingenious by-pass system. The water from the main flows through a reflux valve and Tee-piece towards a second Tee-piece incorporating a Venturi tube. The Venturi causes a diversion of a pre-arranged proportion of the flow through the apparatus, so that it takes up the requisite amount of concentrated softening solution from the container before rejoining the main flow at the other side of the by-pass. It is emphasised that the concentrated solution maintained by the Clensol softening block in the inner container is only tapped when water is actually flowing through the mains and that there is no waste, as when saturation point is reached, no more of the softening agent can be absorbed. By merely turning an adjustable stop-cock it is possible to regulate the degree of softening to suit varying hardnesses of water, without interfering in any way with the flow. Moreover, by closing two cocks the apparatus may be entirely isolated from the main supply when large quantities of unsoftened water are required for the garage or garden. The re-charging of the container is quite a simple matter. The two cocks are turned off, a wing-nut holding the water-tight cover of the apparatus in position is released, and a new softening block dropped into position. The whole process, including the washing out of the inner container, we are informed, takes no more than three minutes, while the normal period between re-chargings is from ten to fourteen days.

LONG-RANGE SPOTLIGHT

A long-range floodlight, which is said to be particularly useful for employment in railway shunting yards, quarries, mines, and on motor launches, as well as for dance hall, theatre and cinema spotlighting, not to speak of the floodlighting of buildings, has recently been placed on the market by Messrs. Davis Brothers, Illuminating Engineers, Limited 36, St. Martin's-court, Charing Cross-road, London, W.C.2. It consists of a projector of the ordinary pattern with a focusing attachment, so that when a 50-watt lamp is used a parallel beam with a range of approximately 600 ft. is obtainable. The focus can be adjusted within 10 deg. The projector itself is carried in the usual mounting which is supported on a low, fixed stand, giving an overall height of 22 in. Alternatively it can be placed on a three-legged stand with ball feet, the height of which is adjustable from 4 ft. 6 in. to 7 ft. It can also be fitted with a colour frame.

In the atmospheric humidity, it was also noted that sprayed metal coatings do not protect wood against absorption of water during soaking. Indeed, the amount of water absorbed was increased in most cases. Frequent swelling and shrinkage of the wood can, and does, weaken the bond between the metal film and the wood surface, and causes cracking, and later peeling off, of the metal.

TRADE NOTES

Indo-Japanese Trade

BENGAL CHAMBER'S VIEWS

London, June 30. It was recorded in these notes a week ago that the Japanese authorities appeared to hold the view that only formal negotiations, involving minor changes, would be necessary for the renewal of the protocol to the Indo-Japanese trade agreement which covers the sliding-scale quota for imports of Japanese cotton piece goods into India. These negotiations have not yet begun, but the Government of India evidently attaches great importance to them, for it is now suggested that it is anxious to complete them before it begins to seek a new trade agreement with the United Kingdom to replace the Ottawa Agreement which it denounced in compliance with the Legislative Assembly's vote. It seems possible, in view of the recent tariff changes on British textiles, that the Government of India may wish to impose additional restrictions on imports of Japanese printed cotton goods and rayon goods, and, if it is guided by Indian commercial opinion, it will propose a great many more changes than the Japanese appear to contemplate.

The Bengal Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with other trade associations in Bengal, has had the protocol under discussion for some time, and it has addressed a memorandum to the Government which, while approving the general principle of the agreement, points out several defects which should be remedied. These include:

INCREASING TRADE

The huge and increasing trade in fents encourages quota evasion because many millions of yards of piece goods find their way into India annually as fents that should have been only admitted under the quota as piece goods. These spurious fents are often difficult to detect; there is, however, no question but that considerable evasion has been taking place through this channel.

The quota excludes all articles of cotton cloth cut up for piecing together into shirts and other garments as also for umbrella coverings. It is not difficult to visualise the ease with which evasion is possible in this direction.

Under the quota, goods are measured in terms of linear yards and this system throws open the door for evasion because it would be possible for Japanese manufacturers who are at present shipping the standard widths of 25/6in. to 28in. to double their quota allowance by manufacturing their goods measuring, say, 52in. wide with two selvages in the centre separated by a small space where one or two threads have been omitted. This enables the cloth to be divided readily into two pieces of 26in. after arrival in India. It is such narrow width which is ordinarily in demand in this country.

Quota evasion can take place as a result of Japanese piece goods imported into the Native States and the various countries, such as Afghanistan and Nepal, which adjoin the frontiers of British India, being smuggled into British India.

It is suggested that the quantity of fents imported from Japan should be limited to a small proportion, say 25 per cent, of the permitted imports of piece goods, that the quota should cover all articles of cotton or rayon cut up for piecing together into garments or umbrella coverings, etc., that the quota should be calculated in square yards instead of linear yards, and that piece goods of rayon and staple fibre should be brought within the quota. As regards the other provisions of the arrangement, the Bengal chamber suggests that the basis for calculating the permitted imports of Japanese textiles should be not merely the exports of raw cotton to Japan but "the total Indian exports to Japan of all goods subject to a specified minimum export of Indian raw cotton." Changes such as the Bengal chamber suggests would probably not commend themselves to the Japanese, and if the Government shares the chamber's views the negotiations may prove to be heated and prolonged.

Mr. Norikazu Ikeda, the Japanese manager, is the only one who speaks English.

"We are the first Japanese eight to compete in Europe," he told me. "What's more, we've never seen a foreign crew race before—but we won first time out at Marlow."

CABLE CONTRACTS IN INDIA

CALLENDER'S EXPANSION

London, July 2.

Reference to new contracts in India was made by Sir Tom Callender, the managing director of Callender's Cable and Construction Company, at yesterday's meeting. He explained that the company's interests had spread out from Bombay to Delhi, Agra, and many other important towns, and continued:

Resulting from the successful undertaking of the Uhl River work, we have lately been brought into touch with the Government of Madras, where large contracts have been completed by us, and new work is well on the way. The native State of Travancore has also called upon us to supply a main transmission line of over 150 miles in extent to supply their towns and to give electric power in many parts of the widespread area of that State.

Sir Fortescue Flannery (the chairman) announced that trading for the first five months of 1936 had improved on 1935 and that the output of the works in May was a record.

CALLENDER'S DIVIDEND POLICY

Sir J. Fortescue Flannery, at yesterday's meeting, explained in some detail the conservative dividend policy adopted by the board of Callender's Cable and Construction Company. In view of the substantial rise in profits he disclosed, the directors had considered the question of increasing the Ordinary dividend from the 15 per cent. rate paid in each of the past 16 years, but had decided, "after prolonged and careful deliberation," to plough back the additional earnings into the internal resources of the company.

NO INTENTION OF GIVING UP TERRITORIES

PRIME MINISTER QUESTIONED

London, July 18.

The Prime Minister was questioned in the House of Commons to-day regarding the reported statements of the South-African Minister of Defence, on the Colonial question, and was asked whether the Government in their consultations with him during his recent visit to England officially discussed the question of Germany's claim to the territories in Africa, and whether they gave him any reasons to believe the putting forward of such claims would be sympathetically entertained by His Majesty's Government.

Mr. Baldwin replied he thought the question was based on misapprehension. He understood in an interview with the Press on his return to South-Africa that Mr. Pirow himself made it clear that the impression he was giving was the result of personal observations on the talks with individuals and groups and not the outcome of specific discussions with the members of the British Government. So far as the attitude of His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom was concerned he had nothing to add to the previous statements made in the House on this subject.

There were a number of supplementary questions, Sir Henry Page Croft and Mr. Churchill seeking more explicit statement. Finally the Premier replied to the answer given by the Government was perfectly explicit.

As to whether the Government had given Mr. Pirow any reason to believe putting forward of Germany's claims would be sympathetically entertained by His Majesty's Government, his answer was in the negative.—British W. Wireless.

Gail Patrick has probably the oddest form of recreation in the world. Some people go speeding in an automobile to ease their nerves, others listen to music, but Miss Patrick goes to court and listens to famous attorneys plead cases.

Miss Patrick has delved into law herself and some day she intends to become a lawyer. She celebrated the finishing of her assignment in "The Lone

"RIFF RAFF"

AT THE ORIENTAL THEATRE

Jean Harlow has never displayed her versatility as an actress to better advantage than in "Riff Raff" showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

She is seen in another sparkling role, against the background of the sea, but in a vital, romantic story, which gives her the finest opportunity of her career.

Teamed with her for the first time, is one of Hollywood's finest actors, Spencer Tracy, and the two miss no opening to get the most out of the powerful and sweeping story, which mixes the most hilarious comedy with the most touching pathos.

Convinced that the trend of public preference is for red-blooded stories with virile power and sweep, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has scored in starring its two strongest personalities.

Much of the story takes place in the fishing village adjacent to the great California metropolis. There the fishermen live their lives, and work out their destinies without contact with outside influences.

Miss Harlow, an angel of the waterfront marries a braggart and a bully, and spent the rest of her life trying to reform him.

Tracy is shown as a swaggering skipper of a tuna clipper, a two-fisted strong man who rules the fleet with an iron hand.

Miss Merkel and Callets head a strong supporting cast, which includes Victor Kilian, Mickey Rooney, J. Farrell MacDonald, Roger Imhoff, Juanita Quigley, Paul Hurst, Vince Barnett, Dorothy Appleby and Judith Wood.

"Wolf Returns," the Columbia picture now showing at the Alhambra Theatre, by travelling to San Francisco. In fact, she had Roy William Neill, the director, shoot her last scene the previous evening, working until one o'clock in the morning so that she could hear a famous Bay City attorney make his address to the jury. Melvyn Douglas and Tala Birell are also featured in the cast of "The Lone Wolf Returns."

"THE UNGUARDED HOUR"

Screen entertainment filled with mystery, drama and romance that will appeal to young and old alike will be unfolded to-day at the King's Theatre with the opening of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Unguarded Hour."

All the flavour that made the Ludislaus Fodor play a smashing hit is contained in the picture, which includes a cast of notables headed by Loretta Young and Franchot Tone.

Dealing with the adventures of a well-to-do young married couple, the husband of which is a brilliant attorney, the picture has the same flavour that made "The Thin Man" last season's most successful cinema. Miss Young, as the wife who bares her husband's past before the world to save his life, turns in her finest performance.

Tone, in the strong role of the English barrister who finds himself involved in a ghastly crime by means of circumstance, climaxes his outstanding work in "Mutiny on the Bounty."

The production, done in a lavish manner, concerns a prosecuting attorney who is famed for sending men to the gallows on the strength of circumstantial evidence. Through a strange series of happenings, he finds himself involved in a murder and is arrested on circumstantial evidence.

The thrilling finish climaxes itself in a tense courtroom scene that caused the audience to grip their chairs.

Lewis Stone, Roland Young, Jessie Ralph and Dudley Digges add new laurels to their outstanding careers with their performance in the new production ably directed by Sam Wood.

Three of Hollywood's most important romantic stars, Fredric March, Gary Cooper and Miriam Hopkins together with Edward Everett Horton, than whom there is no funnier, play the leading roles in Paramount's film adaptation of Noel Coward's sensational stage success, "Design for Living" which is now playing at the Star Theatre.

The picture was directed by Ernst Lubitsch from the screen play written by Ben Hecht, author of many Broadway stage hits including "Front Page."

"Design for Living" concerns itself with the romantic entanglements of three sprightly, light-hearted artists. The triangular romance has its inception in a Parisian spring, and winds its hilarious path through London and New York before it reaches its bombshell conclusion.

When Gilda met Tom and George on the train that afternoon, she just never thought of love, especially love at first sight. She is too fond of Tom to tell him she loves George, and she also loves George too much to tell him of "Tom."

PETITION BEFORE COURT

A scheme for the reorganisation of the Bank of Canton, Ltd., and the reduction of its capital, was brought before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor at the Supreme Court yesterday, when the petition for sanctioning the scheme was approved.

Subject to an amendment whereby the 30,000 shares at $10 to be subscribed within three months be increased to 50,000, and the capital was allowed to be reduced from $8,665,600 to $1,083,200, made up of 216,640 shares of $5 each the scheme was approved.

Mr. Leo D'Almada, Jr., instructed by Mr. C. D'Almada, appeared for the petitioning creditors, and Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Mr. D. B. Evans, represented the Bank in support of the petition. Mr. J. B. Prentiss, Official Receiver, and Mr. S. Hampden Ross, Special Manager of the Bank, were also present.

Mr. D'Almada said the petition was to ask the Court to sanction the scheme of reorganisation and to confirm the reduction of capital. The bank, said counsel, was incorporated in 1912 and carried on successfully, increasing its capital and its number of branches from time to time, until September 9, 1935, when it found itself unable to meet payments and had to put in a petition for winding-up. At that time the Bank had branches in Canton, Shanghai, Bankok, Hankow and other places in China, as well as in San Francisco.

THE DELAY

Because the Bank had branches in two continents this accounted for the delay for the winding up and the drawing up of the petition. Shortly after the petition was filed the local creditors of the Bank in collaboration with some of the creditors put forward a scheme for the reorganisation and decided that it would be best for all concerned that preliminary meetings should be held before any attempt should be made to obtain the necessary sanctions of the Court.

These "feeler" meetings resulted in an overwhelming majority in favour of the scheme and the result was an originating summons heard before Mr. Justice Lindsay who gave directions as to the calling of meetings and the necessary requirements. Similar directions, it might be recalled, were given to the National Commercial Savings Bank and the Ka Wah Savings Bank in their schemes of reorganisation which were presented a short time before the present one. In both these cases the meetings were held and the schemes sanctioned by Mr. Justice Lindsay.

REQUIREMENTS CARRIED OUT

All the requirements were carried out although there was a long interval of time between the notice convening the meeting and the meeting themselves because of the fact that the American creditors had to be consulted.

Continuing, counsel said that although ample notices had been given to the creditors, none of them had come forward to oppose the petition. There was, however, something in the way of an objection, namely the report of the Official Receiver. This report, counsel submitted, could not have been put on the file, because there was no winding-up by the Court and the Official Receiver therefore had no jurisdiction to make such a statement. The objection apparently came from a party or parties interested in the winding-up of the Bank in the sense that he stood to gain by it.

His Lordship: Whom do you mean?

Counsel: The Special Manager.

REMARKS WITHDRAWN

His Lordship: But he is an official of the Court. Is it not sufficient to say that the only information before the Court, which is in any sense critical to the scheme was by an official of the Court?

Counsel: If your Lordship objects to my remarks, I will withdraw them.

Counsel then went on to read the report of the Official Receiver and said that it dealt mainly with the uncertain future of the Bank. The report stated that the Bank could only make 7 per cent. profits, and he submitted this was only a conjecture for the Bank might be able to make 20 per cent. profits.

"If the prospects of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, with its $10,000,000 building, were only 7 per cent. profits, this would cause considerable amusement in banking circles," said counsel.

The report further stated that the position of the Bank had not been put before the creditors at the meetings, and counsel submitted that the reason for this was that the date was not available at the time.

Mr. Macnamara said that as all the technical steps in regard to the reduction of capital had been taken, he would not deal with them any further.

Referring to the scheme of reorganisation, counsel said it was supported by an overwhelming majority of the creditors who were the best judges as to the wisdom and unwisdom of the plan. As the petition was not opposed, he submitted it should be granted.

His Lordship enquired if it would have any effect on the scheme if he were to adjourn the petition in order to allow the creditors to reconsider their decision in view of the information now available.

Mr. Macnamara replied by saying that such a course would be fatal in view of the long delay and the heavy expenses.

INCREASE OF SHARES

In view of the overwhelming majority of the creditors in favour of the scheme, His Lordship said that he could not refuse the petition, although he would like to make an amendment to the scheme, namely that 30,000 shares at $10 each to be subscribed be increased to 50,000. If the shares were not subscribed within three months a compulsory winding-up order would be made.

He expressed regret that he was unable to postpone the hearing of the petition so as to enable the creditors to reconsider their decision in view of further information now available, but he felt confident that with the publicity given to the petition, they would have time to study the matter and if they desired to change their minds they could do so by not subscribing to the shares.

BURGLAR CAUGHT

PETTY THEFTS TRACED

Gaoi Term Imposed

Arrested loitering outside No. 127, Robinson Road on July 11 resulted in Chung Cheung, 27, appearing before Mr. Burgess at the Central Court yesterday charged with (a) loitering, (b) the larceny of a silver powder box, a silver mounted mirror and a silver shoe horn the property of Dr. Guzzar, residing at No. 81, Bonham Road and (c) the larceny of one chromium plated clock the property of Mr. W. A. Salter living at No. 125, Robinson Road.

Sub-Inspector Kirby stated that on June 2, Dr. Guzzar reported the larceny at his home. On July 10, Mr. Salter reported the larceny at his home. On July 11, the defendant was seen peeping into a window at No. 127, Robinson Road. When questioned he said that he was looking at some furniture which he had been told to remove.

Upon inquiries being made the defendant admitted to the two previous larcenies and took the Police to a shop in Lower Lascar Road where the clock had been sold for $2. The silver articles of the doctor had been melted down at a shop in Circular Quay where they had been sold for $3.

Inspector Kirby added that the defendant had given the Police every assistance in recovering the articles.

Defendant was sentenced to a total of eight months on the three charges.

MAN'S DEATH PROBED

EVIDENCE CONFLICTING

Friends Disappear

The inexplicable presence of a small abrasion over the left eyebrow of the deceased, was the determining factor which prevented the jury at the Central Court yesterday from reaching a verdict in the inquiry into the death of one, Ah Chai, who died in the Tung Wah Hospital on May 28.

Mr. Burgess sat as Coroner and the jury empanelled were: Messrs. D. A. Montalto (foreman), Lee Yook Tong and M. A. Gomes. Det-Sgt. Riddell said that the two friends of the deceased could not be found and their evidence could not, therefore, be taken.

Dr. R. S. Begbie, Medical Officer of the Victoria Mortuary, stated that the body of the deceased was admitted to the Mortuary on May 30. It was identified the next day as that of Ah Chai by a man named Lam Ping.

There was a small abrasion over the left eye and the deceased was suffering from early lobar pneumonia, affecting both lungs. Death in the opinion of Dr. Begbie, was caused by a fracture of the skull and cranial haemorrhage.

It was possible that the fracture of the skull was caused by a fall when overcome by faintness brought about by the pneumonia.

Dr. Y. F. Ip, resident doctor of the Tung Wah Hospital said that on May 26, an unknown Chinese male was brought in by a Chinese constable.

There were no external injuries on the man. The patient died on May 29 and was sent to the public Mortuary.

Questioned by the jury, the doctor said that there was no bruise on the left eyebrow and the man never regained consciousness. When he was found dead on May 29 there was no bruise on the eyebrow. In answer to a question by Sergeant Riddell witness said that the deceased had been lying on a mattress on the floor.

His Worship then asked the jury to return a verdict. They retired for about 15 minutes and when they returned said that according to the evidence of Dr. Begbie and the doctor of the Tung Wah Hospital, they were unable to determine how the wound came in the skull or cause of death. They returned a verdict of "Death in the Tung Wah Hospital of a cause unknown."

ASSAULT AT TAI WAN

INCIDENT RELATED IN COURT

An altercation between several Portuguese boys and several foks of the Tai Wan Public Bathing Beach, was related to Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday when Mario Gill, 18, clerk, of No. 16 Granville Road was charged with assaulting two Chinese Yau Wong, 29, and Lau Yee-hoi, student, on July 4. The assault was alleged to have taken place at about 9 p.m.

Sub-Inspector P. Kellett appeared for the prosecution while Mr. M. A. da Silva was for the defence. Relating the facts of the case, the prosecuting officer said that one of the complainants was a foki of the public bathing, whilst the other was a student. Both were swimming at the beach on the night in question.

Defendants and two other Portuguese boys attempted to take a boat for a row which was being housed under the matshed. It was locked and the foki told them that it was impossible to take the boat, following which a quarrel ensued.

A Portuguese named Bozario, who was not being charged in the case was asked by complainant to go to the station but he refused to do so. He possessed a bicycle and made as if to ride home. Complainant (the foki) attempted to stop him and held the machine, at the same time called out for assistance.

Mario Gill (defendant) went to his friend's assistance, and it was alleged that he struck complainant a severe blow over the eye. The second complainant, a student who was standing nearby and had not taken part in the quarrel was also set upon by Gill for no reason whatsoever.

Lau Kwan Yau ran to the station and made a report following which defendant was arrested.

Yau Wong, describing himself as a tea hawker, in evidence said that he was employed by the shed. He was retained in hospital for 12 days as a result of his injury.

Following further evidence by witnesses for the prosecution the case was remanded until Monday at 2.30 p.m.

STOLE FROM A TRAVELLING TRADER

WAITER CONVICTED

Chun Cheung, a waiter, living at No. 1, Upper Lascar Road, was charged before Mr. Burgess at the Central Court yesterday with the larceny of a quantity of goods valued at $140 from Chun Man Kwan, a travelling trader.

Mr. W. M. Brown appeared for the defendant and pleaded guilty. Det-Sgt. Mann said that the complainant came back from America three months ago, leaving some of his goods over there, to be brought to Hong Kong later. They were brought by a man named Chun Chui Yue, who when he arrived could not get in touch with the complainant as he had gone to Canton. The goods were in suitcases and left with the defendant. The complainant returned and when the suitcases were opened goods to the total value of $140 were missing.

Defendant was fined $60 or six weeks and ordered to make amends of $60.

EVIDENCE ADHERED TO

Extradition Case

The extradition proceedings against Yu Lap-fai, alias Li Chih-nan, alias Li Shue-yau, were continued yesterday afternoon before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Court.

The allegations against the defendant are that on July 23, 1931, he murdered Tong U Lo, Secretary to Mr. T. V. Soong, Minister of Finance, in the North Railway Station, Shanghai, and did attempt to murder Mr. T. V. Soong, and with others did conspire, confederate and agree to murder T. V. Soong and did solicit, encourage, persuade or endeavour to persuade another person or persons to murder Mr. T. V. Soong.

Mr. D. L. Strellett is conducting the case for the Crown against Mr. P. H. Sin represented the fugitive.

The Crown case was that defendant with five others shot at T. V. Soong at the North Station, and instead killed their intended victim's secretary who was walking by the latter's side during one of his visits to Shanghai. Defendant was seen to fire the first shot in the shooting affray which took place in the station and immediately after that, the secretary Tong, dropped to the ground and later succumbed to his injuries. Luk Yau Tsol, of the Shanghai Railway Police, was yesterday subjected to the cross examination of Mr. Sin. It will be recalled that after describing the incidents at the station, witness had been able to identify Yu Lap-fai, by photographs as one of the assassins.

Despite the cross examination, Luk Yau Tsol adhered to his evidence-in-chief. The case was adjourned.

STABBING CASE

Culprit Gaoled

Pleading guilty to a charge of assault causing grievous bodily harm, Chan Yui, was sentenced to three months' hard labour when he appeared before Mr. Burgess at the Central Court yesterday.

Mr. D. H. Blake appeared for the complainant, Pang Chor Yin, a banker living at No. 56, Hollywood Road. Det-Sgt. Mann was for the Police.

Mr. Blake stated that the complainant was a cousin of the defendant and on June 11, the defendant went to the complainant's house and asked for a loan of $30. This was refused and the complainant came back again later and again was refused, but was offered a few dollars, which defendant then refused.

Defendant then left the room and returned with a knife, with which he stabbed the complainant in the right lower leg. The knife was one of those used in the big killing trade.

The defendant fled after threatening an attack at the door. Complainant went into the witness box and corroborated the case for the prosecution.

Defendant said that the complainant was holding $200 of his which had been left to him by his father.

GIRLS' SCHOOL ATTAINS MAJORITY

Lady Caldecott Presents Awards

AT ST. PAUL'S GIRLS' SCHOOL

St. Paul's Girls' School celebrated their "red letter day" yesterday, when on the occasion of the School attaining its majority, a large number of pupils and friends turned up at the School's Hall to see Lady Caldecott, wife of Sir Andrew Caldecott, the Governor of Hong Kong, perform the distribution of Certificates to the successful candidates on their graduation.

In the absence of the Bishop of Victoria, the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall presided at the function, and with him on the platform were Lady Caldecott, Captain Cragg, Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, (Chairman), Mr. and Mrs. Sayer, Sir William Hornell, Sir Shou-son Chow, Bishop Mok, Mrs. T. H. King, Mr. and Mrs. Li Tse Fong, Mr. Kan Tung Po, Mr. Y. P. Law, Mr. J. M. Wong.

HON. DR. KOTEWALL'S SPEECH
After the school song was sung by the pupils the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall said:

Lady Caldecott, Dr. Catherine Woo, ladies and gentlemen, we are assembled here to-day for a two-fold purpose: the distribution of the school-leaving certificates, and the celebration of the Twenty-first Anniversary of the School. It is to me a matter of regret, which I know you all share, that our Chairman, the Bishop of Victoria, who takes such deep interest in the School, is not with us. The duty of presiding here to-day has therefore devolved on me as Vice-Chairman, and it gives me great pleasure to extend to you a cordial welcome. Most sincerely do I thank Lady Caldecott for her gracious presence which is a great encouragement to us; and I thank all our guests, for coming to share with us our joy on this auspicious occasion.

Miss Woo asks me to say that it is her intention, which I heartily applaud, to follow the good example set by the Headmaster of St. Stephen's College the other day, of taking the annual report as read. A copy of Miss Woo's report is in your hands, and I hope that you will take it away and spare the time to read it.

MISS WOO'S WORK
In place of the annual report Miss Woo gives you a brief address on the history of the School. In that address, which I have been privileged to read, due acknowledgment has been made of various helps rendered to the School; but naturally Miss Woo could not include herself in her tributes, and it is therefore my bounden duty to repair that omission.

For twenty years Miss Woo has been the principal of the School which owes its present efficiency to her hard work, organising ability and devotion. How much the School is indebted to her for its present magnificent building only those who have closely worked with her know; and it may not therefore be out of place on this special occasion to touch upon it. In 1926, when the School found itself in debt to the extent of $180,000, owing to its inability to collect promised subscriptions amounting roughly to that figure as a result of the general Strike and Boycott of 1925, Miss Woo, with commendable pluck, volunteered to go abroad to raise funds. How for nearly two years she laboured hard and unceasingly, and how great were the difficulties which she encountered, I have not the time to tell. Suffice it to say that ultimately she succeeded in raising, mostly in the United States of America and Canada, the large sum of $150,000.

SCHOOL'S INDEBTEDNESS
Not content to rest on her laurels, Miss Woo managed to raise yet another $35,000 after her return to the Colony, making in all $185,000, a sum more than sufficient to wipe off the School's debts. Thus, Miss Woo, in clearing the School of a huge financial debt, has placed it under an everlasting debt of gratitude to herself.

On this day when we rejoice at seeing the School in such prime condition, we must remember the great services of our principal. Nor should we forget those who, in sunshine or storm, throughout the years that have passed have stood by us, and have given us their encouragement and support in such generous measure. (Applause).

DR. WOO'S ADDRESS

Addressing the gathering Dr. Woo said:
Mr. Chairman, Lady Caldecott, ladies and gentlemen—At the outset I should like to join the

HONG KONG AS REFUGE

INFLUX FROM CANTON

Memories of the 1932 "war" in Shanghai are brought to mind again with the abnormal traffic going on both on land and water between Hong Kong and Canton.

Trains and river boats arriving from Canton are bringing in full complement of passengers, while heavy transfer of property in the nature of belongings are also noticed.

The last 24 hours in Hong Kong saw the unusual influx of people from Canton, and an even greater number are expected, to arrive within the next few days.

The influx of the people from Canton is due to the fear that Canton will soon be attacked by the Nanking forces.

It is learnt from a reliable source that additional first class rolling stock have been sent up to Canton and returned to the Colony fully taxed.

centive to yet greater efforts on our part.

The certificates were then presented by Lady Caldecott, who was the recipient of a souvenir of the occasion.

An address of welcome was also delivered by Miss Yung Sau Yan. Following this the gathering were treated to a very enjoyable concert organised by the pupils.

THE REPORT

For the first time this year, we have been able to send in four of our girls for the matriculation examinations. The fact that we have not, until now, given our girls an equal education in Chinese and English, is due to one of the founders of the school having stipulated that higher Chinese should be studied, but that the English standard should not be higher than that reached by class IV in an English school until recently, therefore, our girls qualified only in Chinese in our school, and then entered an English school, eventually gaining Matriculation or School-leaving Certificates and thus giving the credit to others. Our Council members therefore decided to raise our English standard to Matriculation requirements.

For the first time this year, also, one group of our girls have graduated from Senior Middle III. The standard of this class is set by the Chinese Government, so that these girls would have no difficulty in entering any of the Chinese Universities. We have already had girls in Ginling, Yenching, Shanghai and Lingnan Universities.

Every child in the school is required to study Mandarin, since it has become the national language of China. We are proud to say that one of our girls has succeeded in gaining a prize in a Mandarin speech competition for boys and girls held at the Y.M.C.A. Another award that our girls have won was at a singing competition organised by the Wah Kwong Club of the Y.W.C.A. Ever since Mrs. A. Miller has taught singing in the school the girls have shown a marked improvement in that art. A deep debt of gratitude is due to her for the extra time she has given during the year in producing English plays for concerts, including the "Scenes from Twelfth Night," which you have just seen. The girls' acting and clear enunciation in the play "The Christmas Carol" last Christmas, won high praise both from the audience and the press.

The long-felt need of a fully qualified Domestic Science teacher has been met by the appointment of Miss Chan Wei-ching, B.A. of Lingnan University. She has succeeded in interesting the girls in domestic work, and has made the subject a joy instead of a burden. Even greater attention will be given to this subject next year when it is hoped that the art of gardening will be included. Domestic Science does not replace Pure Science for we also teach Physics and Chemistry.

That we have been able to achieve such results is due to the co-operation of all members of the staff, whose unselfishness and untiring efforts have really been an inspiration. I want to thank them one and all from the bottom of my heart, not only for their work but for the sacrifice which they have so nobly made in bearing a big cut in their salaries. We have never had a better qualified staff than the present one. We have

REICH TRAVELERS CHEQUES

AN INCREASING DEMAND

"Reich Travelers Cheques are very much in demand due to the imminence of the Olympic Games in Berlin," said Mr. E. W. Duggan, manager of the American Express Co. Ltd., in an interview with a representative of the "Daily Press."

"It is a surety of monetary value in travelling," he continued, "and the fact that the European countries, notably Italy, Germany and Hungary have increased their efforts tremendously to build up their tourist business, has accounted for this demand in travelers cheques."

There is a heavy discount in exchange in Italy, due chiefly to the removal of sanctions against that country.

"A PROTECTION"
Travelers Cheques are a decided protection for the traveler, no matter how large the sum of money he needs when away from home.

For the sum of $97.00 (H.K.) one may purchase a travelers cheque of 100 Reich marks, and cheques of this type do away with the hazard and uncertainties of carrying cash.

The main importance of these cheques is the fact that the user is protected from loss by refund. If the second signature has not been affixed to the cheques.

The American Express Co. Ltd., began issuing travelers cheques some forty years ago, and their popularity has increased in number to more than a million purchasers yearly who use this means of carrying currency.

eight University graduates twice the number we had last year. I am sorry some of them will be leaving us, and their places will be filled by Mr. Mak Kai-hung, B.A., Miss Daisy Tsui, B.A., of Hong Kong University, and Miss Wang Kam-ching, B.A. of Ginling College, Nanking. Those who leave us have rendered the school valuable help, which I wish here to acknowledge with gratitude.

We regret very much to record the sad death of our dear friend Mrs. Proctor Riley, who came to China last year, and was present at the celebration of our 20th Anniversary. She was so pleased with the work of the school that she promised to make provision in her will for the $200 gold that she had been donating annually as scholarship fund. She kept her promise, and left us $5,000 gold, thus saving the school from the embarrassing situation of facing a big deficit these last two years.

The health of the school has been good, and we want to thank Dr. Arthur Woo and his partners, especially Dr. Tsung, for their voluntary services to our boarders. They also vaccinated the whole school free of charge.

One person to whom the school owes a special debt of gratitude is our Hon. Treasurer Mr. Li Tse-jong, who has generously guaranteed our overdrafts. We are justly proud of having on our Council so many prominent citizens, most of whom are on the platform to-day. They have shown unfailing interest in the welfare of the school, and with their wise guidance I look to the future with hope and confidence.

BICOL GOLD IS NOT FOR SALE

MORE MONEY TO FINANCE PROJECT

Ore Reserves Are Plentiful

At a meeting of the stockholders held on July 6, it was decided to incorporate the Bicol Gold Mining Company for P2,000,000 and to install a mill immediately. No stock in the company will be sold to the public, officials of the company announced.

The following directors were elected to serve during the first term of the incorporation: P. A. Meyer, J. H. Alley, E. M. Grimm, R. C. Peyer, T. B. Loft, S. R. Paterno, and J. C. Cowper.

LONG OPERATION

The Bicol Gold engineer, J. H. von Helber, gave a report showing sufficient positive ore now blocked to warrant the installation of a mill and to guarantee its operation for a long time. A huge reserve of ore is continually under development, he said.

The size of the mill to be installed will be determined by the new board of directors at an early date.

The Bicol area, which is located near Legaspi in the province of Albay, is the newest mining district in the islands to attract attention.

SEVERAL COMPANIES

Several companies, among them the Bicol Gold, the Cabit Mining Association, the Monte Cristo Gold Mines, and the Mayon Mining Association, have been doing prospecting work in the area. Results have been reported good; large tonnages of low grade ore are believed to exist around the town of Manito, across the Albay Gulf from Legaspi.

Whether or not the Bicol area will become a great producer of gold cannot yet be predicted since there has hardly been enough work done to date to make known geological details of the various properties.

Both Bicol Gold and Cabit are said to have ore blocked out in large quantities. Mining men of the islands will watch with interest the progress of Bicol Gold and its proposed mill, for should this plant prove successful, there is every reason to believe that other properties in the same district can do likewise.

BAD MANNERS

It is time that attention was drawn to the behaviour of the Japanese army in North China since the increase of its garrison in the last two months. By the Boxer Protocol of 1901 Japan, like other foreign Powers, has the right to a Legation guard and a garrison force (two separate categories) in North China. Since 1929 Japan has steadily increased her forces while the other Powers have decreased theirs; at the beginning of this year Britain had a Legation guard of 243 and a garrison force of 760, Japan a Legation guard of 303 and a garrison force of 1,900. Since then, as part of its general policy, the Japanese army has increased its forces by some 10,000 men—a clear violation of the protocol. At the same time the Japanese authorities have adopted an attitude of aggressive rudeness to the Chinese and all other foreign Powers. The French Embassy, for instance, was told to keep its soldiers quiet in the cabarets and bars. This week a military parade was held in Peking during which Japanese soldiers took control of the Legation quarter, stationed guards in several embassies and the British banks, and, by way of amusement, roughly handled an American woman, an American officer, and the wife of a French officer, threatening them with bayonets.

But the most extraordinary case is that of Sasaki. Sasaki was a Japanese officer attached to the Manchukuo army who was found dead outside a bar in Peking on the night of May 26. After waiting two days and carefully cremating the body the Japanese authorities complained to the British Embassy that Sasaki had been murdered by two British soldiers. After a formal investigation (the Japanese had supplied no evidence) the British authorities replied that they could find nothing in the charge, an answer which infuriated the Japanese and roused their military commander to accuse the British of "insincerity." The British then appointed a military court, which found that no British soldiers had been in the district at the time. As the Japanese were still not satisfied, the British have appointed a consular court and asked the Japanese to give evidence. This court, sat with difficulty, as on the first day the Japanese boycotted it because they disliked the procedure and on the second day the Japanese officials did not turn up as they were attending a fête at the Japanese Embassy. One cannot prejudge the case, which depends chiefly on the evidence of Korean barmaids, but the whole story is an illuminating example of Japanese behaviour in a land which is not yet their own. In deed, one can only hope that they would behave better if it was.

INCOME LEVY IN CHINA

Foreigners To Pay Equal Taxation

Nanking, July 17. Regulations governing the imposition of an income tax, which provide, among other features, equal taxation on foreigners residing in China, are expected to be passed at the extraordinary session of the Legislative Yuan. The Military of Finance is expecting a revenue of $5,000,000 for the fiscal year through the new levy.

Incomes—salaries, interest on deposits and returns on investments—above $30 will be liable to taxation under the regulations. Taxes on returns on investments will be calculated according to the ratio of the profit and capital with the rates ranging from 20/1000 to 100/1000. The rates on wages and salaries are classified according to the size of the remuneration. For each $10 above $30, rates ranging from 10 cents to $1 will be levied. Interest on deposits and security holdings also will be taxable. Deposits for educational funds with the interest yielding less than $100 per annum, however, will be exempted.

When the tax collection is started special committees will be established in various provinces and municipalities. Tax-payers will be required to pay taxes in advance, to be refunded if it is found that the advance payment was more than necessary.

The accused are Yih Hai-sen, alias "Little Kwangtung," Yang Wentao and Chow Shu-yung, who were charged with the murder of Nakayama, a Japanese marine. Mrs. Creighton refused food before the end, but Applegate ate heartily and died protesting his innocence.

NEW GERMAN LINER

Hamburg-Africa Service

(Hong Kong Daily Press Special)

Hamburg, July 16. The launching of the new liner "Pretoria" for the Hamburg Deutsch-Afrika Line took place without a hitch on Thursday afternoon, and was attended by the Minister of Economics, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht and the South African Minister to Germany, C. G.

The launching ceremony was preceded by a speech by Schacht, who after surveying the German position in World Trade, and the new paths she had been obliged to follow in consequence of the "break-down of the international credit and currency system," declared that although Germany was a debtor nation, in regard to the exchange of goods she was not a debtor, but a very good customer, since her needs were large and capable of further extension. He was confident that the country, after whose capital the ship had been named, would understand his words. Many ties of blood existed between Germany and the South African Union, and German industry and German intelligence had played a great part in the development of the Union which had a great future before it.

He was happy to be able to state that no economic rivalry existed between Germany and the South African Union, which had been one of the first countries to understand and taken advantage of the reorganisation of German economy. This was clearly evidenced by the fact that to-day Germany was already the second-best customer of the South African Union.

DARDANELLES ACCORD TERMS

Dissatisfaction Felt
In BerlinALLIANCE AGAINST GERMANYLeague Employed As Camouflage

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special)

Berlin, July 17. The dissatisfaction felt here at the final form which the Straits agreement took through the admission of the Soviet amendment is reflected in the comments of the inspired organ "Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz" which declares that once again an attempt has been made to expand the validity of the League Covenant provisions in a definite direction by making them cover the obligations arising from regional pacts.

The "Korrespondenz" says: "The League is being employed as a camouflage for a thinly disguised policy of alliances which is extremely disquieting, all the more so since Turkey is not a partner to any such assistance pacts. The provision made in advance that she finally will take part in such a pact constitutes a direct invitation to Turkey to join an alliance directed against Germany."

POINTS OF AGREEMENT

The Straits Conference ended its deliberations on Thursday evening. The text of the agreement will be drawn up on Friday by the drafting committee and submitted for final approval to the public sitting on Saturday. The questions still outstanding were settled in the following manner:

In connection with aviation in the Straits zone, distinction will be made between planes flying in the direction North-South and East-West or vice versa. In the former case only a previous announcement of the intended flight will have to be made, while in the latter case a special permit will be required.

The Straits Commission will be dissolved, and its functions will pass to the Turkish Government.

A new and politically important clause provides that the Straits Convention may be joined by the signatories of the Lausanne Peace Treaty. This clause has evidently been added to enable Italy, which is not partner to the Montreux Conference, to join the Convention at some later date.

The Convention is to be effective for 20, instead of 50 years as originally proposed by the British draft.

REVISION CLAUSE

At Britain's request a clause has been added which facilitates a revision of certain not yet specified matters. It is said here that this has been added to permit a revision of the clause about the passage of warships through the Straits, on which a last-minute compromise had been reached between Russia and Britain, only with considerable difficulty.

The revision, it is said, may be demanded at any time by one of the signatories. If an unanimous decision does not materialise, a three-quarters majority, which must include the majority of the states bordering the Straits, is sufficient to bring about a revision of the Convention.—

"Transoceanic News Service."

FINAL TOUCHES

London, July 17. It is expected that the Drafting Committee of the Montreux Conference will to-day give the new Straits Convention its final form and that it will be ready for signature by Monday.—
"British Wireless."

OPEN TO ITALY

Montreux, July 17. The Dardanelles Convention will be signed at Castle Chillon, it was announced to-day.

The first reading of the draft convention was completed this evening. It was agreed to drop the Straits Commission plan, in view of Turkey's objections.

It was decided that aircraft should be prohibited from flying over the fortified zones.

The Convention will remain open for the signature of Italy, but the absence of Italy will not affect the enforcement of the Convention when it is recognised by at least six powers, nor the right of Turkey to fortify the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus on the signature of the Convention.—

FRENCH ARMS
INDUSTRYChamber Debate On
Nationalisation

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special)

Paris, July 16. A bill proposing the nationalisation of the armament industry was the subject of an animated debate in the Chamber on Thursday.

Deputy Laurent, who was the principal speaker for the right parties, severely criticised the bill itself as well as the general attitude adopted by the Government towards various matters of national defence. Laurent stressed that he and his friends were opposed to any form of restriction of personal freedom and demanded respect for private property. The present laws said the speaker, gave sufficient guarantee for strict control over the armament industry and to prevent war-time profiteering. Laurent moreover expressed the fear that the exportation of war materials from France, which totalled one thousand million francs annually might be endangered by the new measure.

The war Minister however reassured the deputy by stating that these fears were unfounded since the State itself was already amongst its chief exporters.—

ABDUCTION OF ACTRESS

University Students
Found Guilty

Edinburgh, July 16. Two university students, Roderick Johnston and Kenneth Brauer, the latter a South African and member of the University's rugby fifteen, were found guilty in the Sh. 11's Court to-day on a charge of assaulting the actress, Miss Renee Houston some months ago.

The two were ready to take the responsibility for the act of a gang of students, whose desire was only to hold Miss Houston for ransom for charity. Miss Houston strained her ankle slightly during the scuffle which preceded her abduction, but was otherwise unhurt. She did not wish to prosecute the youths.

The Sheriff said there was no excuse for such conduct, whether for charity or otherwise, and it had better cease.

He imposed comparatively moderate penalties, Johnston being fined five pounds and Brauer three.—

SETTLEMENT IN
EUROPEThree-Power Meeting
ProposalPREPARATORY TO LOCARNO

London, July 17. A decision as to whether the meeting should be attended only by Britain France and Belgium is understood to be dependent on consultations between the capitals of these three countries following suggestions made by the British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Eden to the French and Belgian Ambassadors yesterday. The possibility that the British Government would agree to such a meeting must be related to the broad aims of British policy which are directed towards the wider objective of an European settlement.

A preliminary meeting of the three powers would thus, according to the British conception, be part of a general scheme and preparatory to the meeting of all the five Locarno powers. The objective can only be attained by stages, but the British Government desires to avert division of Europe into blocs and counter-blocs such as preceded the events of 22 years ago by taking the initiative towards a general settlement.

The British Government are not prepared to admit that the effort of conciliation attempted in the London proposals of March 19 has failed. As is pointed out in the newspapers, Britain meanwhile maintains in accordance with the agreement of that date, her obligations to France and Britain under the Locarno Treaty.

A parallel obligation to join in staff talks against any "case of unprovoked aggression" has been faithfully executed. The enforcement of the letter of reassurance drafted at the same time would give these undertakings a permanent and incidentally make them reciprocal. They would not, however, in fact increase the amount of security enjoyed by Belgium and France.—

BRITISH READINESS

Paris, July 16. ("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special) In French diplomatic circles it was stated on Thursday evening that according to a semi-official communication from London, the British Government was ready to participate with France and Belgium in a preparatory conference in Brussels on July 22. The object of this preliminary conference would merely be to draw up a programme for the Five Power Conference.—
"Transoceanic News Service."

LOCARNO POWER
CONFERENCE

Conflict Of Views

London, July 16.

The date, agenda and composition of the Locarno Powers conference, originally contemplated for July 22, are still open, as a result of the British Cabinet's decision this morning. The view was taken that the conference should be held solely with the object of effecting a European settlement, and that this could best be done by a five-power meeting at a later date, perhaps the beginning of September.

However, if France feels that a three-power conference is essential in order to prepare for a larger meeting later, then Britain is open to persuasion. But Great Britain is not prepared to attend a three-power conference solely in order to register the failure of an effort at conciliation, without the object of effecting the settlement of Europe.

It is strongly felt here that affirmation of the Western Bloc of France, Britain and Belgium, in the face of the Central European Bloc of Germany, Austria and Italy, would not serve the cause of peace.

Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary, explained these views to the French and Belgian Ambassadors when they called upon him this afternoon.—

THE HYDE PARK
INCIDENTArrested Man's
AntecedentsA HARMLESS
LUNATIC

London, July 17. The real name of George Andrew Mahon or McMahon, the man responsible for the great sensation in connection with the Royal procession, is Jerome Bannigan. He is a Bachelor of Arts of Dublin University and lived at West London for some ten years where for some time he kept herbalists' shops.

McMahon later pursued a claim for $20,000 compensation for alleged wrongful arrest. He had written the Home Secretary and Chief of Police in this matter.

Acquaintances regarded him as a crank, while he regarded himself to be a social reformer. The police believed him to be a harmless lunatic who was nursing a grievance.

It appears that the special police had an eye on him for some time and were searching for him in the vicinity of the incident before the occurrence as they had learned that he possessed a revolver.

The Firearms Act under which McMahon will be charged provides for a maximum penalty of twenty years' penal servitude or imprisonment not exceeding two years.

Scotland Yard has appealed to witnesses of yesterday's occurrence to communicate with them.—

ROYAL PROCESSION INCIDENT

Berlin Report

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special)

Berlin, July 16. On learning of the attempt to assassinate King Edward in Hyde Park on Thursday, Chancellor Hitler sent the following telegram:

"Have just received the news of the dastardly attempt upon Your Majesty's life. I express the heartfelt congratulations at Your Majesty's escape from this danger." The latest reports state that two men were concerned in the attempt, although the brief Communiqué issued by Scotland Yard only mentioned the arrest of one man.

King Edward was on horseback, returning from a ceremony of presenting new colours to a battalion of the Brigade of Guards in Hyde Park. The Sovereign had just reached Wellington Gate at Hyde Corner, when a man in the crowd was seen to raise an arm, and a revolver fell on the street between the King and his escort.

According to eye-witness accounts, which are however as yet somewhat conflicting, a spectator knocked the revolver to the ground, as the man was about to fire. A few seconds later several policemen had hurled themselves at the man, who struggled violently his way to the police station, where he gave his name as "George Andrew Mahon." He denied having had the intention of killing the King, merely having intended a "protest."—

THANKFULNESS FOR KING'S ESCAPE
MESSAGES POUR INTO PALACEEnthusiastic Scenes At London Theatres

London, July 17. Congratulations to the King and messages of thankfulness that no harm came to him as a result of yesterday's incident have poured into Buckingham Palace from all parts of the world. These included messages from all Dominions' Governments and many foreign Governments and heads of State, including Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini.

The general impression is that the man in possession of the revolver, and who was so quickly disarmed by neighbours in the crowd and police who hurried to the scene, must have been mentally unbalanced by some fancied grievance against the Home Secretary apparently, since in his statement in Court the prisoner said he had written and telephoned to Sir John Simon.

The prisoner on being taken to the Police Court is reported to have said: "The King is not hurt in any way, is he? I did not want to hurt him in any way. I only did it as a protest."

According to police evidence, the five chambered revolver was loaded in four chambers but not in the top chamber which gave immediate access to the barrel.

As is well-known it is the common practice of the King to walk freely about London when he has meetings to attend or friends to visit. On returning to the Palace yesterday the King transacted certain affairs of State and then went to Coombe Hill for a round of golf which he won.

PUBLIC ENTHUSIASM

At London theatres last night the audiences and companies joined in singing the National Anthem and people in cinemas spontaneously broke into "God Save the King" when pictures were shown of His Majesty in that morning's parade in Hyde Park.

At London Sessions to-day the Chairman, Sir Percival Clarke, expressed thankfulness that the incident in Constitution Bill was not more serious. "It is right," he said, "that we should express our great satisfaction that the incident turned out to be harmless."—
"British Wireless."

USUAL ROUTINE

London, July 17. The King was at his post in York House at the usual hour this morning. Before starting routine work he perused hundreds of messages of congratulations from all parts of the world.—

AUSTRALIA REJOICES

Sydney, July 17. The all-night radio station which broadcast the first news of the incident played "God Save the King" after announcing the King was not injured.

Newspapers issued special editions proclaiming country-wide rejoicing at His Majesty's escape.

The "Sydney Sun" declares that British subjects the world over will experience relief and thankfulness at the escape of the King who gained affection and respect from everybody and has not one enemy in the whole vast Empire.—

FEELING IN CHINA

Nanking, July 17. Chinese Government and public circles are shocked at the news of the attempt on the life of King Edward. While expressing relief and gratification that the King was not injured, Chinese circles are at a complete loss as to the motive for such a dastardly act which is generally characterised here as "almost unbelievable."—

NOT PERTURBED

London, July 16. The coolest man in the afternoon's excitement, following the alleged attempt on the King's life, was the King himself.

Immediately after the incident occurred, he rode on as if nothing had happened. After lunch he motored from York House to Coombe Hill Golf Club where he played his usual vigorous game. This was in accordance with his original plans, as he had no official visits for the afternoon.

He returned to London in the evening and attended to state business at St. James Palace.—

CHANCES OF RETAINING THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Lawn Bowls Prospects INDIFFERENT DISPLAYS BY THE CLUBS

(BY "SHORT HEAD")

Craigengower C. C. "A" by their smashing win over the Bowling Green last week enhanced their chances of retaining the senior honours for yet one more year, and their victory last week was thoroughly deserved. All twelve players rose to the occasion, and although the Mainland team were beaten they put up quite a creditable display.

R. F. Luz was in irresistible form, and it was through his all round display that his rink was able to inflict a 23 shots' victory over L. Guy's four. Whatever his leading men were unable to do, Luz would invariably put in the finishing touches, and with Rossette backing him up at No. 3 his victory was assured from the start.

An interesting game was seen between U. M. Omar's four and R. Duncan's rink. The C.C.C.'s rink won by 12 shots in this game, but not after an interesting and hard fought affair, in which R. Duncan came in to save his side from a heavier defeat. The Valley players were right on top of their form and were bowling very nicely. The work of saving the side from a heavier defeat was left to Duncan who came through a trying ordeal with colours flying. At one stage the C.C.C.'s rink was lying seven, when Duncan came through with his last wood to lay the shot and thus turned a seven shots' count into a one shot credit.

A. M. Holland must have struck a bad patch when his rink went down to Basa's four. The standard of this game was not as high as the other two rinks, but nevertheless the match was played with the usual skill. Basa's four had the advantage over the losers right from the start and 19 shots to the good on the 21st end.

K.C.C. SURPRISED

The lowly placed Talkoo Docks created quite a minor surprise when they beat the K.C.C. by 19 shots. Much of their triumph was due to Drummond, who besides playing a skip's game, saved his side on numerous occasions. On the other hand, R. C. Craig was in bad form and allowed his opposite to draw away from him. Luck too played a very important part in this match, as on numerous occasions with Craig's four lying with big counts, Drummond would come in with one of his woods to claim the first shot.

The only K.C.C.'s rink to win was Fraser's four. This rink played a good game and were nine shots up against Chalmers' four. For the losers Pollock at No. 1 was in great form and invariably had Gittins guessing. The K.C.C. were well served by Gittins at No. 1 and E. C. Fincher at No. 2, while Fraser put in his usual amount of useful work.

With Goodwin and Lammert playing an indifferent game, and Hyde-Lay off form, the K.C.C.'s first rink went down to Wallace's four by nine shots. Wallace was bowling well, and had the support of his men, whereas Hyde-Lay's rink, with the exception of Lee who incidentally was not playing his usual game, were off colour.

HARD LUCK POLICE

Thanks to H. A. Alves's four the Recreio were able to collect both points from the Police by a mere five shots. The Police were up two of the three rinks, and but for the lapse on the part of Mair's four, they might easily have the tables turned on their opponents.

"Bill" Hollands and his men were six shots to the good against R. X. M. da Silva's four. The Police played better bowls in this match and were more confident than the losers, who with the exception of Basa were shaky.

S. Logan's four scored a meritorious win over the redoubtable C. G. Silva and his men. Although the margin of victory was only three shots, the standard of bowls served was high indeed.

The ultimate result rested with Mair's rink and Alves's four, and the bad lapse on the part of Mair enabled Alves to win by 14 shots which were enough to offset the deficit of the other two rinks.

INDIANS' TWO RECORDS
The Civil Servants were completely routed by the Indians, who incidentally through Dallah's rink established two new 1886 records for rink score. The Indians were in merry mood, and scored as they pleased. There was very little opposition coming from the losers and although Hollidge's and MacGown's rinks did their best to stem the run of the tide, Jones's four were completely walloped by Dallah's rink to the tune of 43 shots to 71.

C.C.C. "B" ran away from Kowloon Docks and were full value for the points. With the exception of Pearce's rink the other two rinks each scored 30 shots.

Pearce's rink went down to Cullen's four by 20 shots to 15, while Field and his men had 19 shots advantage over McKelvie's four and W. Gill's quartette won by 13 shots from Cooper's rink.

TO-DAY'S GAMES

The Senior League leaders are meeting the Civil Servants to-day, and providing nothing untoward happens should garner another two points. This game is being played on Civil Service Green.

Kowloon Bowling Green are entertaining the Police and should also account for the Guardians of the Law. Although they were defeated by the League leaders last week, Bowling Green should start with confidence as they are playing at home.

The Police are an unreliable lot. Their form of late is a puzzling factor. They are capable of extending the strongest rink, and yet when it comes to playing a weak team, their standard invariably falls. Should they be able to keep up with last week's form the Bowling Green will find opposition in them.

Playing at home is a great asset, and Talkoo will have to play one better than last week when they visit Recreio. The Portuguese boys are not very impressive these days. Their standard of play has fallen a great deal. They appear to me to have lost interest in the League and should they desire to win to-day, they will have to be up and about, as Talkoo, from their recent displays are an improved lot.

Kowloon Cricket Club should account for the Kowloon Docks. Granted that the cricketers have fallen in their strides, I do not think the Docks are capable of turning the tables on them. Last week the cricketers were in sad plight, most of their players appeared on the Talkoo green minus the regular form. They should be able to make amends this week.

What should turn out to be a first rate game will be seen on the C.C.C. green, when the C.C.C. "B" clash with the Indians. Both teams are about evenly matched and as the Indians are known to be great point fighters, the Valley team will have to go one better in order to win. Whichever way the result goes, the margin of victory will be small.

FIRST YEAR AT GOLF

AND WINS HAPPY VALLEY COMPETITION

Record Established?

What must be considered a record was established on the Happy Valley golf course recently, when A. L. Powell defeated J. E. Richardson by 8 and 7 in the Final of the Valley Summer Singles Competition in his first year of competitive golf. Powell played off an handicap of 18, while Richardson played off at 10.

Although a novice at the game, Powell commenced a hot favourite for the game against J. E. Richardson, who is an Interport Cricketer, for the former had disposed of W. S. Hillier (9) by 5 and 4, J. Forbes (12) 6 and 5, and J. Dennis (8) an experienced Kowloon golfer, by 5 and 4, on his way to the final. Powell played throughout the competition with a match set of clubs purchased from Messrs. Lane Crawford, Ltd., which he selected with the aid of the assistant in charge who is himself, an enthusiastic golfer.

the Inter-zone Davis Cup Final between Germany and Australia owing to his having caught cold and a sore throat have been dispelled by the announcement that Henkel will oppose Jack Crawford at Wimbledon on Saturday, while von Cramm's opponent will be Adrian Quist. OUR SCOTTISH LETTER

Gossip Of The Week

London, July 2.

Do you know a good Scottish joke? There's a man in Brussels who collects them. He paid for this advertisement in an "agony" column to-day:

Joke collector would appreciate best Scottish jokes. Write, Borowski, 33 Rue Capouillet, Brussels, Belgium.

I banged several sarcophagi, writes an "Evening News" representative, in ringing up Borowski to ask him whether he would accept an English or an Irish joke instead.

"No," he replied, "they must be Scottish. I spent several months last year in Britain, and I got very appreciative of Scottish humour."

"In fact, when I got back I started collecting Scottish jokes. Already I've got 2,000 of them—all different. I keep them in books."

"I keep them for my own entertainment and for the enjoyment of my friends—one of whom happens to be a Scotsman."

"I think Scottish jokes are the best in the world, although I can also appreciate others. I also think the Scottish people are very nice."

M. Borowski denied that he was a Scotsman himself, but when I asked him how much he would pay for the jokes, he replied:

"Pay? Oh, no. I don't want to pay for them."

Which seems to me to suggest that the joke is on Aberdeen.

EDINBURGH 'PRAYER' FOR

QUEEN MARY SISTER SHIP

An Edinburgh "prayer" that the sister ship to the Queen Mary will come to John Brown's yard at Clydebank was made yesterday by the city's Lord Provost.

Lord Provost Gurney, addressing Lord Abernethy, chief of the Clydebank firm, said:

"On behalf of the Corporation and citizens of Edinburgh, may I say that we rejoice with you in your latest enterprise, and we sincerely hope and pray that the sister ship of the Queen Mary will be built and launched from your yards on Clydeside."

Lord Abernethy and the Lord Provost of Edinburgh were guests at the centenary luncheon of the Botanical Society of Edinburgh, a description of which is given in another column.

Lord Provost Gurney said Lord Abernethy had done much to maintain the great reputation of the Clyde area in marine engineering, while the performance of the Queen Mary "has brought honour and renown to Clydeside, and restored British prestige in the maritime world."

An interesting story of his connection with a former famous Lord Provost of Edinburgh, Duncan McLaren, was told by Lord Abernethy. His Lordship is a grandson of Duncan McLaren, and a precious possession of Lord Abernethy's is a 150-year-old chair which was used by Lord Provost McLaren in the City Chamber and presented to Duncan McLaren in virtue of his special work for the city.

TELLING THE WORLD ABOUT SCOTLAND

Scotland is likely to hold an international exhibition in 1938 or 1939.

The proposal for such an exhibition was announced yesterday following a meeting in Glasgow of the newly formed Finance and General Purposes Committee of the Scottish Development Council, at which it was decided to form an expert preliminary investigation committee, which will hold its first meeting in September.

The proposed exhibition, said Mr. Cecil Stewart, chairman of the Finance and General Purposes Committee, at the outset of the meeting, would be on the largest possible scale, and representative of the whole of Scotland.

No site could yet be decided upon, and that and other special matters would be investigated by the proposed committee.

Mr. Stewart pointed out that for some time now the Council had had in mind, as a necessary part of its activities, the organisation of a Scottish National Exhibition which would be a survey of the whole of Scottish life.

No decision of any sort had yet been made but he thought that with the formation of the Finance and General Purposes Committee the time had come to consider whether such a project was feasible. If so, it would be their task to take charge of the work and to form a special sub-committee whose expert advice would be available for the necessary preliminary work.

After a short discussion that was unanimously agreed to, and the work of forming a sub-committee was immediately begun.

The committee considered also the work that is being done in connection with the Scottish Pavilion at the Johannesburg Exhibition in September, the proposed arrangements for the Scottish stand in the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto in the same month, and approved of Scotland again being represented at the British Industries Fair to be held in the new building at Earl's Court, London, in February, 1937.

The Finance Committee, Mr. Stewart intimated, had under consideration also a number of projects likely to start in Scotland at an early date.

SHEIKH OF BAHREIN IN EDINBURGH

After adjusting his gaily-coloured headress in the carriage mirror and taking a ceremonial sword from his son, His Excellency Sheikh Sir Hamad Bin Isaas, Khalifa of Bahrain, stepped to the platform last night at Waverley Station, Edinburgh, from the London train.

Walking for him, with outstretched hand, was an old friend, Lieutenant-Colonel P. Gordon Loch, the Political Agent at Bahrain, who is on holiday in Scotland.

Beside Colonel Loch stood his little son, Tam, and Sir Hamad at once turned to the boy, bent down, cordially shook him by the hand, and spoke to him for several moments.

Sir Hamad has gone to Edinburgh for the week, and is to reside in the North British Station Hotel.

He wears the bright robes of his rank, has one short sword in his belt, and carries another in his hand. On his feet he has light brown boots.

Lord Provost Louis S. Gurney will call on his Excellency and conduct him on a tour of historical Edinburgh. Sir Hamad is afterwards to be entertained to luncheon by the Corporation.

SIR OLIVER LODGE'S HIGH-LAND TOUR

Sir Oliver Lodge, the scientist, who is 85, has just paid a visit to the Scottish Youth Hostel at Dalnally, Argyllshire. The warden has the distinction of being one of the few hand-loom weavers left in Scotland. Sir Oliver watched him weaving a length of tweed and expressed great interest in a process which has been handed down from generation to generation.

Sir Oliver is just completing an extensive tour of the Highlands and Western Ross, accompanied by two of his daughters. After his visit to the hostel he left for Lochearnhead. He is to spend some time at Craigherron Castle, Milnathort, near Glasgow, as the guest of Sir Harold Yarrow.

SCOTTISH VISITORS TO AMERICAN BERWICK

Three civic dignitaries from Berwick, Scotland—Mr. Philip Spowart, the Mayor, Mr. Joseph Fleming, Sheriff, and Mr. William S. Blakey, Sergeant-at-Arm—are attending the 150th anniversary celebrations which opened at Berwick, Pennsylvania, yesterday.

A three-day pageant, a banquet, and the dedication of a memorial to Evan Owen, Berwick's founder and a native of Berwick-on-Tweed, are features of the programme.

Mr. Spowart was warmly cheered when he conveyed, in a speech, the best wishes of Berwick-on-Tweed to its American namesake.

EX-MODERATOR'S SON ENGAGED

Son of a former Moderator of the Church of Scotland, and nephew of the Archbishop of Canterbury, Mr. William Farquharson Marshall Lang has become engaged to Miss Sheila Parker, youngest daughter of the late G. Clive Parker and Mrs. Parker, Lower House, Bournemouth, Surrey.

Mr. Lang is the only son of the Very Rev. Marshall B. Lang and Mrs. Lang, The Manse, Whittingehame, Haddington.

The Lang family for over half a century has played a distinguished part in the ecclesiastical affairs of Scotland and England.

UNIQUE DISTINCTION

Last year with the appointment of the Rev. M. B. Lang as Moderator of the Church of Scotland

ADMIRALTY ENTERPRISE

In deciding to build a new surveying ship to carry on the work of research at sea for which the Carnegie, unfortunately destroyed by fire a few years ago, was intended by the Carnegie Institution of Washington, the British Admiralty is not only showing a welcome spirit of enterprise but also true to its long-standing tradition of acting as a guardian of all who go down to the sea in ships. Its special Hydrographic Department dates from the end of the eighteenth century, and it has always taken a leading part in promoting the safety and certainty of navigation in all the oceans. The magnetic compass (though it now has a rival, or auxiliary, in the gyroscopic compass) remains one of the most important instruments that the sailor has at his disposal for helping him to find his way from port to port, but its indications are subject to so many changes and variations that the layman is sometimes tempted to wonder how it can be of real practical service. It is liable to be affected on the one hand by such errors as are caused by the steel of the ship in which it is mounted—for this reason the new vessel is to be of wood and to have the minimum of ferrous materials in her structure—while on the other hand differences in the magnetic forces of the earth in different localities may cause it to point in directions other than the magnetic pole, which itself is constantly altering its position. For the indications of the needle to be of value to him the navigator must be acquainted with these vagaries, and accordingly one of the main functions of the new ship will be to observe and record them with the aid of all the most delicate instruments that science can provide.

the family attained the unique distinction of having two brothers being at the same time heads of the Church of England and the Church of Scotland.

A third brother is the Right Rev. Norman McLeod Lang, Assistant Bishop of Peterborough.

Mr. Matheson Lang, the actor, is a cousin of the Primate and his brothers.

GLASGOW CATHEDRAL'S WINDOWS

We understand that the Duke of Buccleuch and the Earl of Glasgow have granted permission to the authorities of Glasgow Cathedral to remove two large three-light windows associated with their families on condition that their coats-of-arms are retained. The windows will be refilled by other memorials, five in all having already been gifted. The new donors include Sir Steven Blandland, Mr. A. M. Macgeorge, Colonel Charles Spencer, and Sir John Stirling Maxwell.

PEDESTRIAN CROSSINGS

The first pedestrian crossing in Glasgow was opened yesterday at the junction of Buchanan Street with Parliamentary Road and Sauchiehall Street. Pedestrians are now enjoined to cross only when the green light indicates that the way is clear, anyone breaking the regulations being liable to a fine of £5. The pedestrian should be warned, however, that the green light is not necessarily a passport to a safe crossing to the other side. If, for example, he is crossing at the east end of Sauchiehall Street he has no guarantee that there will be no traffic turning from Buchanan Street into Sauchiehall Street. The new crossing is literally a step in the right direction at the right time but it depends for its efficient working on vigilance and co-operation on the part of motorists and pedestrians alike. If, however, it leads to that happy state of affairs at all road crossings the money will have been well spent.

"72 MLEAN"

A few years ago when Jack McLean, the distinguished Scottish amateur golfer, was making his way in the world of golf he was dubbed "72 MLean" because he seemed incapable of taking more than level 4's on any course. He well earned his former "non-de-guerre" yesterday at Hoylake when he accomplished the long and difficult course in 72 in the first round of the Open Championship. Although his score does not give him the lead he can regard it with the more satisfaction because he survived the qualifying rounds with nothing to spare.

AIR DISPLAY AT HENDON

For this, as well as for other tactical reasons, navigation will become of the utmost importance, and the good pilot will be the one who can find his way about rather than the one who can "throw an aeroplane about." The fighter pilot as well as the bomber pilot will have to depend on this navigational skill. Against fast aircraft the fighter will have to be able to find his way with accuracy to the point at which the control room estimates he should intercept the raid detected over the sea or crossing the coast. To arrive at the wrong place at the appointed time would mean a stern chase lengthened, so that it might be futile, by the diminishing ratio between fighter and bomber speeds. It is becoming obvious that one of the new bombers, given 10 minutes' start, could only be overtaken after an hour's pursuit, and in that period it might have travelled 250 miles.

Speed of the type now in contemplation raises at least two other issues of first importance. It may wholly defeat the old idea of fighter tactics, which, assuming a large superiority in the fighter, prescribed the diving, zooming, banking, and looping type of manoeuvre to bring the bomber continually over the fighter's gun sights. One may doubt to-day whether the fighter can afford the time to indulge in such manoeuvres. His target is moving so fast that it may be not only out of range but out of sight if he attempts to come first one way and then another at the raider's weak spot. Circumstances may force the fighter to determine his main line of attack as he comes up with his quarry and then to hang on leech-like, pouring missiles into him.

There are signs in certain countries that the bomber may choose to regard speed as the most profitable form of self-defence and may sacrifice gun stations to it. An unarmed bomber, streamlined and overpowered, might prove a most difficult target for the fighter armed only with the two machine-guns firing forward. The low-seater fighter with a rear gun capable of sweeping a wide field is an attempt to solve part of the problem. France and Belgium have turned to some extent to fighter armament of heavier calibre. Great Britain's principal move up to the present has been towards increasing the number of guns and training them all on to an imaginary common target at the most effective range. The Gladiator, which is about to go into service, has four guns arranged on this principle. It may be concluded that the still faster fighters will need guns in the wing as well as alongside the fuselage if they are to disable the heavier bombers before they get through to their objectives.

SYSTEM OF DETECTION

If these deductions are sound the expanded R.A.F. will be a vastly different affair from the starved organisation on which the country has relied since the War. The pace of its operations will be greatly accelerated. Its range of operations will have widened. The weight of the attack each of its units, whether bomber or fighter, may deliver will have been largely increased. For the most efficient use to be made of this great machine it must be served by an equally quick and sure system of detection. Part of this duty will fall on the new twin-engined aeroplanes, now described as general reconnaissance machines. These, if they are worthy successors of their civil prototype, should be capable of something like 200 miles an hour, and, although their duties will include the defence of the coasts against naval attack, they will certainly be required on occasion to do long-distance reconnaissance flights over the sea to give warning of approaching raids.

How the machine will work may depend on a great many factors. But it is evident in the sample aeroplanes on view at Hendon to-day that the working parts of the machine will be of magnificent quality. The fame of this year's aircraft products has already found its ways into other lands, and most of the nations will have their representatives at to-day's display. Some of the nations have already made up their minds to adopt British products, if they can get them, and the Air Ministry, intent on its own urgent needs, is seeking, by compromise and adjustment, to let other nations have instalments of some of the new types and to promise further instalments at dates not too remote. The rich quality of the industry's output is an embarrassment in the present circumstances, but it is also a promise to a nation which, in recent months, has needed, and by its coolness deserved, reassurance on the subject of air defence. Those who look intelligently at what the R.A.F. display has to show may count themselves fortunate shareholders in a concern whose products are unequalled in any other part of the world.

TOO NEAR SHORE

A fine of £1 or in default, seven days' imprisonment was imposed by Mr. E. Hiniworth at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday on Chan Mo, 42, mistress of a boat and Kwok Kau, 23, boatman for being within 100 yards of Somers Island at low tide, on July 16. A charge of failing to stop when called upon to do so, was waived, when he accused pleaded that they had failed to hear any warning. Sergeant Dewar, of the Water Police, prosecuted.
